VIRGINIA STANICK

RESEARCH/STATISTICAL MANAGER - PREVENTION SERVICES

Though she is an Arkansas native, Dr. Virginia Stanick spent most of her adult life in New York City. In 2013, she returned to her home state. She earned a bachelor's degree from Hendrix College in Conway; earned a Master's in Social Work degree for clinical social work at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock; and earned Ph.D. for Cognitive Neuroscience at The City University of New York.

Her professional interests and experience are diverse, including human electrophysiology, neuropsychology, and integrative/behavioral medicine, but the majority of her career has been committed to clinical and research work in a variety of settings focused on substance misuse prevention, treatment, and recovery.
